Q8 Tens of millions of newly out-of-work Americans are currently receiving unemployment benefits during the recession. Which of the following reasons do you think is most responsible for keeping workers from going back to work: workers don’t feel safe going back to work during the pandemic, there are simply not enough jobs available for unemployed workers right now, or, workers are receiving unemployment benefits that are too generous and thus are not looking for jobs?

- Workers don't feel safe going back to work during the pandemic* 31%

- Workers are receiving unemployment benefits that are too generous and thus are not looking for jobs* 35%
- Not sure* 6%

Q9 In addition to the extra weekly benefits, Congress passed a relief fund to help struggling small businesses stay afloat called the Paycheck Protection Program. Concerns have been raised that the Trump administration set up the program in a way that prioritized wealthy and well-connected companies while leaving out many small businesses, especially minority-owned businesses. With this program set to expire next month, do you think Congress should extend the Paycheck Protection Program as-is, extend it but fix the Paycheck Protection Program so that it prioritizes the small businesses most in need; start over with a new program that is more transparent and focuses on helping small businesses most in need; or allow the Paycheck Protection Program to expire?

- Think Congress should extend the PPP as-is* 10%
- Think they should extend it but fix the PPP so that is prioritizes the small businesses most in need*..... 39%
- Think they should start over with a new program that is more transparent and focuses on helping small businesses most in need*..... 36%
